

For too long America has defined "Freedom" to mean "freedom to do something." What about "freedom from something?"

I want "freedom from" the noise and distractions of cell phones in close proximity.

That's real freedom for me.